SESSION 01

The Foundation

Who a VA is and how to position yourself to get hired

HOOR 1

What It Really Means to Be a VA

- A VA isn't 'do anything remotely' ~ it's a business that sells a specific outcome. Lead with the result, not the task list.
- Who actually hires VAs: solo founders drowning in ops, small agencies needing reliable extra hands, coaches/creators who need their back-end run.
- What clients are really buying: trust and time back ~ reliability and communication matter more than any single software skill.

TEMPLATE: YOUR OUTCOME STATEMENT

I help [who], so they can stop worrying about [what].

EXAMPLE

"I keep your inbox at zero and your calendar conflict-free."

HOOR 2

Your Offer: Niche, Services, and Rates

- Pick a niche from an industry you understand, a tool you already know, or a problem you've solved before (even unpaid).
- List 3-5 concrete services, not vague categories: inbox management, calendar coordination, client onboarding, light bookkeeping, social scheduling.
- Pricing: pick an hourly rate you'd be glad to work at, multiply by realistic weekly hours per client ~ that's your retainer floor. Raise it every 2-3 clients.
- Offer two formats: an ongoing retainer, and a low-commitment project package as an easy first yes.

TEMPLATE: YOUR STARTER OFFER

I help [niche] with [service 1], [service 2], and [service 3] so they can [outcome]. Starting at [rate]/hr or $[rate] per month.

EXAMPLE

"I help online coaches with inbox management, calendar coordination, and client onboarding so they can focus on coaching. Starting at $15/hr."

HOURL 3

Your VA Profile and Online Presence

- LinkedIn builds authority for warm intros. Upwork needs to pass a 3-second scan. Talent Mucho rewards specificity and proof over volume.
- Avoid resume language ("Detail-oriented professional seeking opportunities"). Clients hire relief, not resumes.
- Profile shape: who you help !' what you take off their plate !' proof or example !' a clear next step.
- No paid clients yet? Borrow credibility from adjacent proof: a friend's inbox you organized, a content calendar for your own project, a relevant course you finished.

TEMPLATE: PROFILE ABOUT SECTION (3 SENTENCES)

I help [niche] with [your 3 services from Hour 2].

Recently, I [proof/example ~ a result, a personal project, or relevant experience].

[Closing line inviting them to reach out].

EXAMPLE CLOSING LINE

"Message me and tell me what's eating your time ~ I'll tell you how I'd fix it in the first week."

HOURL 4

Pitching and Getting Your First Client

- Outreach fails when it's about you and works when it's about them ~ show you already understand their problem.
- 4-line structure: (1) show you looked at their business, (2) name the specific pain, (3) offer a small low-risk way to help, (4) close with an easy question.
- Where to send it: DM founders/creators directly, reply thoughtfully in niche communities, or offer a free mini-audit as a no-risk foot-in-the-door.
- Silence is normal. Send 10-15 messages a week instead of agonizing over 2 perfect ones.

TEMPLATE: COLD OUTREACH MESSAGE

[1] Saw [specific detail about their business].

[2] That has to be eating [specific resource ~ time/headspace/money].

[3] I help [niche] with [your service] ~ [low-risk way you could help].

[4] Want me to [easy, specific next step]?

SESSION 02

Claude Day

Build your VA business assets with AI, live

HOOR 1

Working Smarter with Claude

- Clients pay for judgment, taste, and accountability ~ AI doesn't have those. A VA who uses AI well delivers 3x the output in the same hours.
- Think of Claude as a fast, capable junior assistant that needs clear direction. Your job becomes directing, reviewing, and finishing.
- Golden rule: AI drafts, you decide. Never send a client-facing message straight from Claude without reading it for accuracy and tone first.

TEMPLATE: DAILY WORK PROMPT

Using these notes: [paste bullet points / voice note transcript]

Write [a client email reply / a meeting summary with action items / a prioritized task list] in a [tone ~ warm and professional / brief and direct] voice.

EXAMPLE

"Using these notes: client asked about timeline, wants invoice resent, mentioned new project starting next month ~ write a warm, professional email reply covering all three."

HOOR 2 (90 MIN)

Build Your Portfolio Landing Page with Claude

- Step 1 (15 min) ~ Copy: feed Claude your offer line + profile draft, ask for landing page copy.
- Step 2 (45 min) ~ Build: ask Claude to generate the page (HTML/CSS, or Carrd/Notion), section by section: hero, services, about, contact CTA.
- Step 3 (20 min) ~ Refine: tighten anything generic, swap in your real specifics.
- Step 4 (10 min) ~ Publish: host it free (GitHub Pages, Netlify drop, Vercel, or your no-code builder).

TEMPLATE: LANDING PAGE COPY PROMPT

Using this offer line and profile: [paste from Day 1]

Write landing page copy with: a headline, a 3-sentence intro, [3-5] services framed as client outcomes (not tasks), and a closing call-to-action pointing to my email.

EXAMPLE

"Using this offer line and profile, write landing page copy with a headline, a 3-sentence intro, 3-5 services framed as client outcomes, and a closing CTA pointing to my email."

HOURL 3

Build Your VA Dashboard with Claude

- A dashboard separates 'does tasks' from 'runs a system' ~ one place to see active clients, tasks in flight, and what's overdue.
- This hour scopes a realistic starter template; customization/hosting happens as take-home work.
- Three core views: Clients (name, services, status, next action), Tasks (by client, due date, status), Invoices/Payments (client, amount, status, due date).
- Take-home: customize with real clients, pick a long-term host (Notion, Airtable, or a simple Google Sheet).

TEMPLATE: DASHBOARD BUILD PROMPT

Generate a [Notion / spreadsheet] dashboard template for a VA with views for:

1. Clients ~ name, services, status, next action

2. Tasks ~ by client, due date, status

3. Invoices ~ client, amount, status, due date

Include a filtered view for overdue tasks and a rollup for total outstanding invoices.

EXAMPLE

"Generate a Notion dashboard template for a VA with views for Clients, Tasks by due date, and Invoices, including a filtered view for overdue tasks and a rollup for total outstanding invoices."

HOURL 4 (30 MIN)

Certification + Next Steps

- Certification requires completing both sessions and submitting two deliverables: portfolio landing page link + dashboard template.
- The Talent Mucho VA network is a warm introduction channel to vetted client opportunities ~ not automatic placement.
- What's expected once certified: responsiveness, outcome-first communication, honesty about current capacity.

CHECKLIST: BEFORE YOU SUBMIT FOR CERTIFICATION

- & Portfolio landing page is live at a real URL*
- & Dashboard template has Clients, Tasks, and Invoices views*
- & Offer line, profile, and outreach message are all finalized*
- & Sent at least 3 real outreach messages*
- & Submitted both links to hello@talentmucho.com*
